A Prayer for Lenten Simplicity

Free me, Lord Jesus, from anything that obstructs my way to you. Clear away the clutter of petty grudges. Remove smudges of resentment and bitterness. Cleanse me of thoughts filled with anger envy, or self-pity. Create space in my life for more kindness and less spitefulness, greater generosity and stronger compassion. Enlarge my heart with a spirit of gratitude this Lent, so that I recognize the simple gifts that lay in abundance all around me. In your sacred name, I pray. Amen.

Generosity in Forgiveness

By Gregory F. Augustine Pierce

The story of the Dishonest Steward (Luke 16:1–13) is often used to justify operating by the rules of the marketplace. In that parable, Jesus praises the manager for being wise in the ways of the world. After he is caught and about to be fired, the steward begins feathering his own nest by calling the rich man's debtors and offering them a deal to settle accounts. In this way, the dishonest manager figured—probably correctly—debtors would “welcome me into their homes” after he was terminated.

The lesson seems to be that if you're caught cheating, you need only figure out a way to come out on top. Jesus even says, “The children of this world are more prudent in dealing with their own generation than are the children of light.”

But Jesus wasn't promoting shady business practices, and his subsequent comments bear this out.

First, notice that the dishonest manager is never praised for his original “squandering” of the master's property. We're never told what his crime entailed, but presumably the manager was stealing the owner's money for his own use. Rather, Jesus commended the manager for his subsequent actions. Let's take a careful look at what the manager did:

The manager called in the owner's debtors and got them to pay up by offering them reductions: “To the first he said, ‘How much do you owe my master?’ He replied, ‘One hundred measures of olive oil.’ He said to him, ‘Here is your promissory note. Sit down and quickly write one for fifty.’ Then to another he said, ‘And you, how much do you owe?’ He replied, ‘One hundred kors of wheat.’ He said to him, ‘Here is your promissory note; write one for eighty.’”

Luke concludes the parable with, “And the master commended the dishonest steward for acting prudently.” So, what the manager was praised for was his industriousness in forgiving some of the debt, not for feathering his own nest.

Generosity Day by Day

This is all part of Jesus' ongoing description of what the reign of God (his kingdom) is like. Generosity, forgiveness, and industriousness are hallmarks of that kingdom, which Jesus taught us to pray would come “on earth as it is in heaven.”

How does this relate to our lives on our jobs, with our families, and in our communities? We're called to be industrious about forgiving others their debts and giving away the rich man's (God's) things! We're not to emulate the dishonest manager's dishonesty, but to model his generosity.

Whom must we forgive, and what of God's do we have to give away? One way of looking at it is that everything we have is God's. He is the ultimate owner. And we are to forgive everyone—ourselves included.

Living God's Reign Now

Yes, the money that the dishonest manager was forgiving belonged to the master (who clearly symbolizes God the Father in Jesus' parables). But God is a different kind of owner, one who wants to give everything away. The manager finally “got” what the rich man was all about and started doing what his master had wanted all along. Instead of squandering the master's money, the manager was expected to forgive and share with others.

If we are going to serve God in this world, then we must operate by God's rules, which aren't the rules humans are used to following. In God's reign we do not squander the owner's wealth for our own purposes. We are to forgive others' debts and give away the owner's wealth. +

Lord, your grace and love make me whole. Help me to trust in the endless possibilities of the present moment.

Prayer to the Virgin
Mary

☪ Mary, Mother of Jesus and Mother of us all, we turn to you today as the one who said "Yes" to Life. "You will conceive and bear a Son," the angel told you. Despite the surprise and the uncertainty about how this could be, you said yes. "Be it done unto me according to your word."
Mary, we pray today for all mothers who are afraid to be mothers. We pray for those who feel threatened and overwhelmed by their pregnancy. Intercede for them, that God may give them the grace to say yes and the courage to go on. May they have the grace to reject the false solution of abortion. May they say with you, "Be it done unto me according to your word." May they experience the help of Christian people, and know the peace that comes from doing God's will.

Amen.
